

FAIR FOR ALL OR FREE FOR ALL?

If you are a social landlord, recent legislation and court judgments have opened your decisions to public scrutiny and human rights & equalities challenges. To many it may seem there is no way through this new legal obstacle course but this training will show you how to rise to the challenges that you may be faced with.

What delegates will learn...

By attending this course, you will obtain the tools to navigate around this changed landscape and the confidence to make decisions that are compliant but also bring results. You will learn about:

- Why all social housing providers are considered public bodies
- What this means in practice
- The key legislation and its impact
- How your decisions will be looked at by the courts
- Improving confidence in decision-making
- Human rights challenges and how to deal with them
- How the Equality Act applies to housing practitioners

Course structure:

- Key laws and regulations in practice
- Housing providers as public bodies
- How it happened and future implications
- Judicial review — what it is and what you must do
- Human Rights — case law and the pitfalls to avoid
- Embedding equalities legislation in your housing management function

Who should attend?

- Housing managers
- Policy makers
- Housing officers
- Heads of Service
- Team leaders
